BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

Lisbon Applegate was born in Kentucky in 1803 and moved to St. Louis in 1822. He studied surveying as a youth. He moved to Cole County in the early 1820s where he remained until 1832 and during his residence there was elected a judge on the county court. In 1832 he moved to Chariton County and was elected to the county court in 1837. He was appointed a deputy surveyor in 1835 to survey the Platte Purchase. Applegate served on the state constitutional convention in 1845. During the gold rush of 1849, he went to California with two sons, George W. and John L., but returned, after having no luck, to Missouri. In the 1850s, he served as a public administrator for Chariton County and also went into business as a merchant. During the Civil War, Lisbon Applegate was in self-exile as a southern sympathizer and served as a major under General Sterling Price in the Confederate Army. After the war, he returned to Chariton County under a federal parole and assurances from the U.S. district attorney that he would not face prosecution. He acted as a real estate agent for numerous individuals and a few St. Louis land firms. In 1874, he was appointed justice of the peace for Keytesville Township in Chariton County.

Lewis M. Applegate was born in 1832. He was a local political and civic leader. He served as deputy county clerk prior to his election as county clerk in 1853. He served two terms and refused a third term at the outbreak of the Civil War by refusing to take the loyalty oath to the Union. He was a prominent merchant in Keytesville and served for some twenty-five years as the secretary of the Keytesville Masonic lodge, Warren Lodge No. 74.
