ORGANIZATIONAL SKETCH

In 1904, St. Louis hosted a World's Fair to celebrate the centennial of the 1803 Louisiana Purchase. The Fair opened April 30, 1904, and closed December 1, 1904, and was held at the present day Forest Park. The Fair's 1,200 acre site was designed by George Kessler. There were over 1,500 buildings, connected by some 75 miles of roads and walkways. Sixty-two foreign nations exhibited at the fair, including each of the 43 states of the United States of America at that time.
