7 cubic feet, 2 flat and 1 oversize box

Family papers of descendants of John Campbell of Kansas City, in particular the Frederic and Charlotte Pugsley family and their daughter Mariska.

BIOGRAPHY:

Mariska Pugsley was born in 1918, the second child of Dr. Frederic Nelson Pugsley and Charlotte Elizabeth Johnson Pugsley (a descendant of Charlotte and John Campbell, for whom Charlotte Street and Campbell Street were named). Dr. Pugsley was a Lieutenant Commander in the Navy, serving mainly in China and other Far Eastern countries. As a result, much of Mariska's childhood was spent in the Orient, particularly China, where she attended the Tientsin American School. While in China, her father acquired an extensive art collection that was purchased in part by William Volker in 1931, and later was donated to the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery.

Mariska began her writing career at an early age, recording her daily life in diaries, writing stories, articles and plays. She kept meticulous scrapbooks and photographs albums documenting her life and that of her family.

In 1944 Mariska married David W. Childs, a lieutenant commander in the Navy. Their son, David W. Childs II was born in 1947. While living in Kansas City, Mariska was involved with the Junior League, the Nelson-Atkins Museum, the Kansas City Museum, and the young Republicans. She often performed children's theatre and also acted in plays at the Resident Theater and other locally produced theatre productions in Kansas City. During World War II, she wrote, produced, and acted in two weekly radio shows which continued for the duration of the war. The shows were mainly for the Office of Civilian Defense (OCD) and were later to include the United States Office of War Information (OWI). They aired over WDAF and KCMO. Among Mariska's other activities were her ownership of an antique store in Kansas City, her work as an art appraiser in the Washington DC area, and her career as an artist/painter. She also would occasionally purchase houses for restoration.

After her divorce from David Childs in the 1960's, Mariska married Lieutenant Colonel Ralph E. Marker, Jr. (1925-1989). At that time he was a student at the Command Staff School, Fort Leavenworth. He later became manager of accounting systems for the Federal Reserve System in Washington DC.
