These are transcripts of the journal of a resident of Phillipsburg in Laclede County, Missouri. The brief entries note marriages, births, injuries, illnesses, and deaths in the community, and contain news on fires, weather conditions, visitors, and residents moving away from or returning to the Phillipsburg area.

Anderson McFall's journal details life in a small railroad town at the beginning of the twentieth century. It is a useful source for a community which had no newspaper. The journal was transcribed by the donor. Page numbers have been supplied. The entries are more or less chronological, from 5 February 1898 to 29 October 1914.
