This daybook was kept at Little Rock landing on the Mississippi River just north of Ste. Genevieve, Missouri, from 5 January 1854 to 22 March 1856. Listings include the person or firm and amount charged, commodities brought ashore or shipped, and the name of the steamboat. The proprietor might have been Francis Claude Rozier. Large quantities of iron and lead were shipped from the landing.

“Little Rock” was one of at least three landings on the west side of the Mississippi River in the Ste. Genevieve area. The others were known as “Ziegler’s” and the “middle” landings. Located about a mile north of the town’s business district, Little Rock offered year-round accessibility to the river and storage areas for commodities. During the period of this record it was probably owned by Francis Claude Rozier, of the prominent Ste. Genevieve banking and mercantile family. Major metal-shippers such as Felix Janis & Company, Lewis Ziegler, and Felix Rozier paid regular fees for the use of the landing.

The typical business at Little Rock was the unloading, warehousing, and transportation of general merchandise brought downriver from St. Louis by steamboat, and the hauling, storage, and shipping via the departing boats of iron and lead ingots brought from inland mines and smelters to Ste. Genevieve over the “Plank Road.” The lists of unloaded goods were at times quite specific, including household furnishings, mining supplies, whisky, and even carriages and pianos, although many lots were simply described as “sundries.” Outgoing shipments were mostly “pig metal” and “blooms.” In many instances “metal” was hauled from one of the other landings to Little Rock, presumably due to unsatisfactory river conditions at the less-favored sites. Firms and individuals doing the most frequent business at the landing included the American Iron Mountain Company, Benjamin Bogy & Company, M. P. Cayce, Chouteau Harrison & Valle, J. R. Evens & Company, Johnson & Cole, the Madison Iron & Mining Company, G. Nettleton, V. C. Peers & Company, Prewitt & Patterson, J. E. Sowers, Tong & Aubuchon, John A. Weber, and John Ziegler. An indexed list of accounts is included in the Information Folder.

Careful note was kept of the steamboats which did business at the landing. It was not unusual for three or more boats to stop on a single day. Boats which were the most frequent callers, probably running local packet routes out of St. Louis, included the Alton, the Bunker Hill No. 3, the Elvira, the Fashion, the G. W. Sparhawk, the Sallie West, the Southerner, and the St. Paul. Complete alphabetical and chronological lists of the steamboats have been placed in the Information Folder.

This volume presents a useful and detailed view of the river trade prior to the completion of the “Iron Mountain” railroad, after which “metal” shipments by steamboat undoubtedly declined precipitously. Entries note, for example, that “water pipes” were hauled for the Madison Iron & Mining Company between Ziegler’s landing and Little Rock on 12 April 1854; that “Negro Boys” were paid $8.00 “for hauling Pilot Knob metal under Bank for shipment to St. Louis” on 27 August 1854; and that “One ten Dollar counterfit Ohio State Bank Bill” was discovered on 12 February 1856.
