BIOGRAPHY OF J. ORVILLE SPREEN

J. Orville Spreen was born on August 19, 1897. He began working for the Wabash Railway in February 1912 at the age of 15. He started as an office boy in the joint offices of the General Superintendent of the Missouri District and General Attorney of the Burlington Railroad. He gradually worked his way up the ranks until he attained an executive position with the company. He retired in 1962 after 50 years of service to the Wabash Railroad.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

A great majority of the J. Orville Spreen collection consists of information compiled for use by the Junior Chamber of Commerce Historic Markers Committee. During the early 1940s the Committee was very active in St. Louis. Most, if not all, of the information they used to designate historic sites can be found here. Along with this information, the text revisions of each marker is included. In the process of designating sites, the Committee collected literature and information concerning St. Louis history and the history of various industries and businesses in St. Louis.

Only a small portion of the collection concerns Spreen's personal and family life. The series entitled Spreen trips includes some information about vacations which Mr. and Mrs. Spreen took. This is, however, the extent of the information concerning Spreen personally. There simply is not that much information available.

The truly valuable part of this collection is the photographs. Each construction stage of the Gateway Arch, the Stadium, and the Mansion House Apartments is captured on film. Spreen photographed all of the buildings which were razed in the course of these projects. The photographs themselves are candid photographs and some are of very poor quality. The real value of these photographs are Spreen's descriptions. He gives the exact location of the buildings in question and from where the photograph was taken. Often Spreen included a brief history of the building photographed. The photographs are also a record of the activities of the Historic Markers Committee.

Some of the manuscripts and documents in this collection are very helpful to researchers. The real find, however, is the photos. The Spreen photos document many districts and buildings which no longer exist. Finally, in addition to Spreen's photographs, he also collected a variety of Dr. William Swekowsky's photographs, which are also an invaluable resource.
