HISTORY OF THE UM-ST. LOUIS WOMEN'S CENTER

The purpose of the Women's Center is to serve as an educational resource for women students, faculty, and staff of the UM-St. Louis campus. The Women's Center began in 1973 because of the efforts of a group of women students, faculty, and staff who felt the institution was not adequately addressing the needs of women on campus. The Center's function has evolved from being solely a service unit to a unit that impacts on institutional policy and academic climate around issues of gender.

The UM-St. Louis Women's Center, an office of the Division of Student Affairs, provides the following direct services to students, faculty, and staff: drop-in lounge, programs on women's issues and career choices, sexual harassment information, short-term counseling, advocacy for women students, library of literature by and about women, topical resource files, referral services, and information on women's activities in the community.

Additionally, the Women's Center provides networking and leadership opportunities. The Center is a member of the Alliance, a consortium of business and professional women's organizations. The Women's Center also serves as an informal conduit for student leaders and provides leadership training programs for women.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The UM-St. Louis Women's Studies Program Collection of Publications is a broad collection of newspapers, magazines, articles, posters, convention notes, and newsletters from all across the United States ranging from 1949 to 1988. Most of the titles included in this collection, unfortunately, have only one or two issues included here. Although the dates given are fairly broad, most of the publications are from 1969 to 1971.

Some of the newspapers and magazines are relatively complete collections for the years cited. Almost every issue of The Guardian from 1969 to 1970 is included in this collection. The collection of Off our Backs is also fairly complete for 1970 through 1972. Several issues of Rat are included, but they are not dated so completeness is difficult to gauge. Lesbian Connection from 1975 to 1980 are included. The copies of Lesbian Tide are also fairly complete for 1975 through 1980. Another magazine which is relatively complete is Women Sports for the years 1979 through 1980.

This collection is invaluable because it shows the researcher many of the issues which racked this country during the late 1960s and early 1970s. Although many newspapers have only one issue in this collection, it demonstrates the unity and divisions of the radical and underground communities. There is a heavy emphasis on feminist-lesbian literature and women-oriented issues, which makes sense considering the source. The collection has several articles which describe divisive issues, such as separatism, which existed in both the lesbian and women's movement. For information such as this, the Women's Studies Collection is irreplaceable.

SERIES DESCRIPTIONS

Series 1: Newspapers (folders 1-103): This series consists of radical, feminist, and feminist-lesbian newspapers. It is arranged alphabetically by title. Dates included 1968 through 1982.

Series 2: Periodicals (folders 104-160): This series consists of magazines, journals, newsletters, and such which are not newspapers. These items are also arranged alphabetically by title. The periodicals included are radical, feminist, feminist-lesbian, and women-oriented magazines from 1968 to 1983.

Series 3: Articles (folders 161-203): This series consists of various published articles concerning women and women-oriented topics. These articles are arranged alphabetically by title. The dates range from 1949 to 1978.

Series 4: Other Publications (folders 204-240): This series contains anything which did not fit the above descriptions. Posters, broadsides, pamphlets, general fact sheets, handbooks, surveys, notes on workshops, and guides are all in this series. This information is arranged alphabetically by topic. Dates range from 1968 to 1988.
